

Straight from the headlines... CNN... Frontline... The Today Show

Frank Meeink

Perpetrator turned peacemaker speaks out on hate crimes

Sunday, April 9, 2000, 7:00 p.m.

Schoedinger Theatre at Columbus Academy
4300 Cherry Bottom Road
Free Admission

Hate crimes have been sweeping the country. Find out what motivates those who commit these crimes from someone with first-hand knowledge. Frank Meeink is a former skinhead and neo-Nazi recruiter turned peacemaker. He is committed to speaking out against all hate groups and to sharing their insidious methods of recruitment. To encourage working in harmony, Meeink has founded a sports group which encourages youth of all races to play hockey together. He spends much of his time speaking on behalf of the Anti-Defamation League and working to eliminate hate propaganda.

Parents...
Educators...
Counselors...
Social Workers...

Don't miss this powerful Currier Lecture Series speaker!

By invitation only. Program not advertised to public. Call 509-2211 for information.